TAITO ELEPONG

○Taito Elepong is a electronically simulated Ping Pong game visually displayed on a TV screen.

○The ball is automatically served from the net and the players attempt to hit the ball with their paddles(which are on both side of the net) by controlling its vertical positions with the control knobs located in the front of the cabinet.

○Players score points when they manage to hit the ball past the opponent's paddle and out of the screen.

○A game is won by either one of the players when he scores 11 or 15 points against his opponant.
